Dear Applicant,

I am delighted that you are interested in the role of Director of Music at St Joseph's College. We are excited to welcome applications from dynamic, forward-thinking professionals and to grow the staff of this amazing school.

About the school

St Joseph's College is an outstanding, oversubscribed mixed Catholic grammar school with a 90 year tradition of excellence. The school is part of the Edmund Rice family of schools, founded by the Christian Brothers and following the charism of Blessed Edmund Rice. Our Catholic ethos is very important to us but not all our staff are Catholic. We embrace diversity and welcome staff from all backgrounds and traditions. All of our students take a full and active role in all aspects of the religious life of the school. All staff, regardless of religious commitment, uphold the Catholic ethos of the school.

As a semi-selective school in Years 7 – 11, students must attain a standardised score of 105 in the entrance examination to be eligible for one of the 150 places. We are always oversubscribed and our intake reflects the ethnic, cultural and social diversity of the region. We have over 1,100 fantastic students on roll, including a sixth form of 400 drawing successful from schools across the city and beyond. We offer a full range of GCSEs and A levels courses and academic standards are consistently very high - we expect the best for and from our students.

We love our 1932 building, but in the last few years several million pounds has been invested in our premises. We have two purpose built sixth form blocks, a specialist Sports Hall and the school owns extensive playing fields beyond our site.

Along with traditional values of exemplary behaviour, hard work and the highest standards, we embrace leading-edge practice and an ethos of continued staff development. Subject expertise is very important to our knowledge-engaged teaching and we are committed to lifelong learning and self-development. We are nationally recognised, having been awarded Teaching School Hubs status, meaning that we lead on teacher training, the Early Career Framework and the delivery of all NPQs for the 317 schools of Cheshire East and Cheshire West and Chester. This is a fantastic place to build your career.

Why come to work at St Joseph's College?

We look after our staff very well; our ethos is grounded in care, a warm friendly atmosphere and the highest academic and behaviour standards. We are committed to developing the whole person so that our students and staff are enriched academically, spiritually, morally and socially. The 120 teaching and support staff are energetic, creative, utterly dedicated and very supportive of each other.

We mix the best of the traditional and the modern; we have a house system, a school song, a fine tradition of sports and games and we also have a vibrant musical and cultural life, we get involved in social justice campaigns, linking with schools across the world. Our students and staff are all part of a huge and very proud global community.

This is a rare opportunity to play a pivotal role leading one of the best music departments in the country. The Director of Music will be responsible for the leadership and management of the Music Department, ensuring the highest standards of teaching and learning are delivered and leading our team of peripatetic staff and extensive extra-curricular music programme. This role provides great scope for imagination, innovation and dynamic leadership from the right candidate, and will require creativity, empathy, energy and a sense of adventure, as well as strong leadership potential and empathy.

If you visit St Joseph's, I know that you will be struck by the friendliness and courtesy of the students who really are exceptional young people. Relationships between staff and students are excellent. Students are respectful but at the same time warm and friendly, and parents and governors are very supportive of the school.

I genuinely believe that we have developed a very special community at St Joseph's College of which I am very proud.

I look forward to receiving your application and wish you the best of luck.
